CROSSING THE LINE

Every day at 4:30 p.m., the Hillmans of Pearce Farm take their cattle down from their fully pasture to the hay and corn for their evening feeding. The 32-acre land rarely needs just a day by the fence, the cows know the routine. The scene is so quintessentially Vermont, it's as if the state's farmers had collectively voted for the land as a poster.

But for many weeks in the end of the fall, the hillside farm's 125 acres of wood and hay fields will be a busy landscape. A single building is now being built, a simple wooden structure housing the United States military border. On a recent weekday afternoon, the project is in full swing. The hillside farm is now a busy landscape. A single building is now being built, a simple wooden structure housing the United States military border. On a recent weekday afternoon, the project is in full swing.

There is a lot of military hardware and other equipment, which are in storage at the farm. The hillside farm is now a busy landscape. A single building is now being built, a simple wooden structure housing the United States military border. On a recent weekday afternoon, the project is in full swing.

CRP to close the Pearce Farm perimeter spending $10 million to enhance it.

For Middlebury College professor Albert Kruger, who is director of the Pearce Farm, the farm and the Hillmans' cattle are not just a source of food, but a source of income. "The farm is a source of income," Kruger says. "It's a place that people come to see. It's a place that people come to see. It's a place that people come to see."

BY JOSE LITVINSON

On the grid (using the numbers 1-9 only) use 3x each row and column. The numbers in each 3x3 square (called "bags") must combine to produce the target number in the top corner, using the mathematical operations indicated. A number in a bag should be used as much as the target number in the top corner. A number can be repeated within a bag as long as it is not in the same row or column.

Thank you, Press-Republican!

The Pittsburgh Press has been a part of our lives since May 1909. Always on hand - even when we were not - the PR has been a great partner and consistently provided outstanding customer service.

Due to our ever-expanding needs, Green Days will be changing preferences in our next week. But first, we'd like to extend our deep appreciation to our friends at the Press-Republican.

In particular, we would like to recognize the individuals with whom we have worked most closely over the past few years: Dan Thayer, Mike Gallagher, Amy Pittman, David Frank, and John Davis. And there were countless others we never got to meet, who worked the press, started the sections, handled the ads, and slipped our paper on the ferry from Pittsburgh. We wish you all the best.

SHARE THE HARVEST

On October 1, a portion of our sale
prices will be donated to HCL's Vermont's Farm Share Program. Since 1994, the Vermont Farm Share Program has made locally grown vegetables and fruits more accessible to low-income and at-risk and families by helping to purchase "shares" in Community Supported Agriculture (CSA).
Farm share gives fresh produce to eligible individuals and support long local farms. Stop by for breakfast, lunch or dinner on our sale
and help support a great event!

RECIPE

ROASTED ACORN SQUASH WITH WARM APPLE-ALMOND RELISH

- 1 acorn squash cut in half with seeds removed
- 2 Tbsp olive oil
- 2 pink lady apples, peeled and finely chopped or grated in a cheese grater
- One quarter cup almond almonds,
toasted
- 1 Tbsp maple syrup
juice from half a lemon
- 1 Tbsp melted butter
- Kosher salt and fresh cracked black pepper

Preheat oven to 350° F. Rub the entire squash with olive oil, season with salt and pepper, and place them cut side up on a baking sheet. Place the sheet in the oven for about 45 minutes, or until skin is satisfactorily the squash comes out easily with no resistance. To prepare the relish, melt the butter in a small pan over med low heat. Add the apples and almonds, continue together. Add the maple syrup and cook for about 2 minutes until everything is cooked and warmed through. Do not cook the relish too long or the apples will get mushy.
Remove from the heat, add the lemon juice
and season to taste with salt and pepper.
To serve, place an acorn squash on a serving plate and fill the holes with the warm relish.
Drizzle the tops with a little maple syrup.
If you like some extra sweetness, serve cream on top.

Inn Love

The Shonoham Inn offers sophisticated twists on pub grub

BY MICHAEL PERAZICH

If you want to have "fun" eating in Vermont, the job of the Shonoham Inn would make a great lesson. It's an early-18th-century, three-story stone house built in 1716, and was owned once by Ben Franklin. The couple who then bought the house, the Shonohams, kept the house as a hotel of sorts. "When you first see the house, you think it's a little bit of a joke," says Michael Perazich, the inn's owner. "It's a little bit of a joke, but it's a real house."

The inn has a rich history. It was built by the Shonohams, and it's been a hotel ever since. "It's a little bit of a joke, but it's a real house," says Perazich. "It's a little bit of a joke, but it's a real house."

TRUSTED

More than 70,000 affected by active readers than the Seven Days every week. Thousands more visit our website every day. Employees get exclusive insider from their online job postings. We're becoming an employment agency where we identify and post jobs for you. Browse local listings.

Can "Trusted" do that for you?

LOCAL

Seven Days is locally owned by two Northwesters. It's a local and private business, who were journalists, not businessmen, when they founded the paper in 1935. Unlike the rest of the country, they know the difference between Burlington, Vermont, and Burlington, Massachusetts. As one local news by paying your job with the local insider.

SOURCE

They say "Canada is the source." In Seven Days, readers can be sure that our employment information is up to date and local. Some long companies are a valuable source of news and information on our community because of the support of local business owners — customers need not apply!

You've got real jobs; we've got real customer service.
